

VRINGO EXTENDS ITS LAWSUIT AGAINST ZTE IN GERMANY WITH ADDITIONAL PATENT

February 21, 2013

Trial Scheduled for September 24, 2013 on First Patent Vringo Asserted Against ZTE in Germany

NEW YORK - February 21, 2013 - Vringo, Inc. (NYSE MKT: VRNG), a company engaged in the innovation, development and monetization of mobile technologies and intellectual property, today announced that its wholly-owned subsidiary, Vringo Germany GmbH, extended its patent infringement lawsuit against the ZTE Corp. China, and its German subsidiary, ZTE Deutschland GmbH (ZTE).

"This extension is another step in Vringo's continued enforcement of its intellectual property assets. We believe that ZTE is one of several large multinational telecom equipment companies that are currently infringing patents in our Telecommunications Infrastructure Portfolio," said Andrew D. Perlman, Chief Executive Officer of Vringo.

The pleading, filed in the District Court of Mannheim, alleges infringement of the German part of European Patent 1,186,119. Declarations have been filed at the European Telecommunications and Standards Institute (ETSI) that cover the patent. ZTE's accused devices are believed to fall within the scope of the patent. Vringo's complaint brief will be served on ZTE.

According to the complaint, Vringo is seeking injunctive relief, rendering of accounts, and damages.

"This case is part of Vringo's licensing and enforcement program. The asserted patent covers fundamental aspects of network operation, and is part of our telecom infrastructure portfolio," said David Cohen, Head of Litigation, Licensing and Intellectual Property at Vringo.

"Our lawsuit against ZTE was filed in Germany in November 2012. In the absence of an agreed settlement, trial on the first asserted patent is scheduled on September 24, 2013. Further enforcement actions may follow in due course against ZTE and other companies with products that we believe infringe our patents. As with all other unlicensed companies we believe infringe our patents, if ZTE does not agree to a license with us, then we will ask the court for appropriate relief," Mr. Cohen continued.
